Intelligent History: Introduction to the Byzantine Byzantine Empire Chapter PDF of the Byzantine Empire PPT Link Unit 1 Target List: Byzantine Empire led by Tribonian, Corpus Iuris Civilis [Civil Law Authority] was issued in three parts, in Latin, at the behest of Emperor Justinian. The Codex Justinianus (529) compiled all the extant (at the time of Justinian) imperial constitution from the time of Hadrian. It used both codex theodosianus and private collections such as Codex Gregorianus and Codex Hermogenianus. The Digest, or Pandects, was published in 533, and was a greater success: compiled the writings of great Roman lawyers such as Ulpian along with contemporary edict. It represented both the current law at the time and a turning point in Roman law: since then, the sometimes contradictory case-law of the past has been transferred to the ordered legal system. The institutes were designated as a kind of legal textbook for law schools and included extracts from two main works. Later, Justinian issued a number of other laws, mostly in Greek, that were called Novels. Working in groups will determine what can be a doe by law today, according to Hammurabi, and Justinian for each scenario. Then, students have to compare and contrast the difference between the law today and the law then for each scenario. Record similarities and differences in the Venn diagram or T chart. byzantine_dbq.pdfFile Size: 6363 kbFile Type: pdfDownload File byzantine_engineering_an_empire_handout.pdfFile Size: 84 kbFile Type: pdfDownload File Virtual Tour Hagia Sophia Violence, Sex, and Chariot Races: Niche Revolt Directions: To be best prepared to test the review of your notes, handouts and target letter from the unit.
